INTRODUCTION

Online dating (or Internet dating) is a system that enables people to find and introduce themselves to potential connections over the Internet.

Online dating services allow users to become "members" by creating a profile and uploading personal information including (but not limited to) age, gender, sexual orientation, location, and appearance. Most services also encourage members to add photos or videos to their profile. Once a profile has been created, members can view the profiles of other members of the service, using the visible profile information to decide whether or not to initiate contact. Most services offer digital messaging, while others provide additional services such as webcasts, online chat, telephone chat (VOIP), and message boards. Members can constrain their interactions to the online space, or they can arrange a date to meet in person.

OBJECTIVES

The objective of this project is to create a social media network through which people can introduce themselves to potential connections based on their Personality, Hobbies, Like's and Dislike's, Age, Location and Gender Preference over the internet and once they have connected through friend request, they can also chat with each other.
